

Selkirk College School of University Arts and Sciences presents:

If Memory Infuses Dust and Other Poems

Kathryn Soloveoff-Robbie

For the past three decades, Kathryn Soloveoff-Robbie has been creating images of life and spirituality which mark her imagination as unique within the Doukhobor tradition. Her poems are published by the Mir Press in recognition of the enduring attachment to the ideals of her first community, out of respect for her chosen spiritual path which seeks unity in diversity, and as a token of appreciation for the work she and her children have done in helping to make the Mir Centre for Peace a reality.

READING: Poetry of Tradition and Memory in the Kootenays

Mir Centre for Peace, Selkirk College
Thursday, October 16, 2008
Doors Open 6:30

All proceeds from book sales will be donated to the Mir Centre for Peace.