“ I chose to go to school at Kootenay School of the Arts because it hosts the best jewellery program in B.C. The course I took gave me an excellent grounding and start to my full-time career as a jewellery designer! ”

Caroline Miller – 2003 Alumna of the Jewellery and Small Object Design program at Kootenay School of the Arts and entrepreneur

Caroline gravitated toward jewellery at an early age, sneaking plastic earrings onto her ears and poking them into family portraits.

Since those days she has apprenticed as a silversmith in Uruguay, earned a diploma in Jewellery and Small Object Design from Kootenay School of the Arts (KSA) and studied in the coppersmithing town of Santa Clara del Cobre in Mexico. She currently works from her successful studio in Squamish, B.C.
